AROUND THE TOWN

Rev. Mr. Milton was a visitor at Ponoka at the beginning of the week.

Miss Florence Adam of Edmonton is visiting with her parents at Springside.

Miss M. E. Gibb of Calgary is the guest of her sister, Mrs. G. C. Adam.

Miss Oleson of Cremona is visiting with her sister, Mrs. S. Stevens of the Alexandra hotel.

Will Miller of J. V. Berscht's store left for Red Deer on Wednesday to undergo an operation for appendicitis.

H. Roeth was a visitor at Calgary last week and took a course of baths and massage treatment for his rheumatism.

Mrs. J. F. Porter of Noelton and A. Winterbottom of Acme were visiting with Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Wood this week.

Miss Flossie Gibson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Gibson, was taken to Calgary on Saturday to undergo a serious operation.

Services will be conducted in the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening at 7.30. Rev. Mr. Beecroft of Queens University will conduct the services until the return of Rev. Mr. Marshall.

Rev. Mr. Milton has handed in his resignation to the Baptist church pastorate but the church has asked him to reconsider the same. Mr. Milton has received a call to the Ponoka Baptist church.

The cemetery trustees are fixing up the cemetery. New fence posts are being put in all around the cemetery and a new fancy wire fence put along the front, and the walks and roads will be put in repair.

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held in the Baptist church on Monday afternoon, June 9th, at 3.30 o'clock. Every member is requested to attend, and those who are not members are especially invited.

The next Women's Institute meeting will be held at the residence of Mrs. John Liesemer on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, June 12th. Subject, salads. All the ladies of the district are cordially invited to attend.

The first meeting of the local branch of the Y. W. C. T. A. was held on Monday evening at the residence of Mrs. J. S. Daum. There was a very good attendance of members, who showed great enthusiasm for the cause.

Rev. L. H. Wagner, Superintendent of Missions, will conduct a German service in the Evangelical church on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, to which all German speaking people are heartily invited. On Sunday evening at 7.30 Rev. Wagner will administer the Lord's Supper in the same church, everybody is invited to attend this service.

The hail storm on Tuesday evening was very severe in this district while it lasted. No doubt it will remind the farmers of the district that it is time to make arrangements for hail insurance. An advertisement appears on another page for the farmers living in Mountain View Municipality re forming a hail insurance district. Read it. We will explain the Act in this respect more fully next week.

Made Him Anxious

In a country town in the English Midlands there is a man who is so noted for his conversational abilities that his acquaintances avoid giving him unnecessary opportunities to talk.

One cold morning this man rode up to an hotel in the neighborhood just as the guests were finishing breakfast. He dismounted, walked in, saluted the landlord in his usual loud tones, and declared that he was so cold that he could hardly talk.

Just then a nervous traveler who was present stepped up to the landlord, and taking him by the coat, said:

"Mr. L., have my bill brought as soon as possible."

What is the matter, my dear sir? inquired the anxious landlord. Has anything happened?

Nothing, nothing. Only I want to get away from here before that man thaws out.

He was a man who gave little and got much. Today, for instance, he had got a clothes-brush, a basin of water, a towel, and a shave, and he had given nothing at all. Tr-r-r-r! went his bedroom bell. The hotel attendant smiled slyly. This was the fourth time he had been summoned, and he didn't hurry. I thought you were never coming, exclaimed the visitor, when the attendant appeared at last. Are you nicknamed Slow-coach? No, sir, answered the attendant. They call me Billiard Cue! Billiard Cue! repeated the visitor frowning. Then an inspiration dawned. Ah! because you are a stick, I suppose? Wrong again, sir! retorted the attendant. It's because I work better with a good tip.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS USED FOR TEN YEARS

When one medicine is used in a home for a number of years it is the strongest testimony as to the value of that particular remedy. Thousands of mothers have been using no other medicine but Baby's Own Tablets for years—in fact many of them say they would have no other medicine in the house. Concerning them Mrs. Jas. H. Konkle, Beamsville, Ont., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for ten years and would not be without them as long as there are children in the house." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

His Excuse

What did you mean, John, by telling the Smiths that you married me because I was such a good cook, when you know I can't even boil an egg. I had to make some excuse, my dear, replied John, and I didn't know what else to say.

A Mild Pill for Delicate Women.—The most delicate woman can undergo a course of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills without fear of unpleasant consequences. Their action, while wholly effective, is mild and agreeable. No violent pains or purgings follow their use, as thousands of women who have used them can testify. They are, therefore, strongly recommended to women, who are more prone to disorders of the digestive organs than men.

Mollere relied entirely upon the temperance of his diet for the re-establishment of his health. What use do you make of your physician? said the king to him one day. We chat together, sire, said the poet. He gives me his prescriptions; I never follow them; and so I get well.

MORE THAN EVER Increased Capacity for Mental Labor

Many former tea and coffee drinkers who have mental work to perform day after day, have found a better capacity and greater endurance by using Postum instead of tea and coffee. A Western woman writes:

"I had drank coffee for about twenty years, and finally had what the doctor called 'coffee heart.' I was nervous and extremely despondent; had little mental or physical strength left, had kidney trouble and constipation." (Tea is just as harmful because it contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee).

"The first noticeable benefit derived from the change from coffee to Postum was the natural action of the kidneys and bowels. It two weeks my heart action was greatly improved and my nerves steady."

"Then I became less despondent, and the desire to be active again showed proof of renewed physical and mental strength."

"I am steadily gaining in physical strength and brain power. I formerly did mental work and had to give it up on account of coffee, but since using Postum I am doing hard mental labor with less fatigue than ever before."

Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

Postum now comes in new, concentrated form called Instant Postum. It is regular Postum so processed at the factory that only the soluble portions are retained.

A spoonful of Instant Postum with hot water, and sugar and cream, to taste, produce instantly a delicious beverage.

Write for the little book, "The Road to Wellville."

"There's a Reason" for Postum.

Sore Back, No Fun, Cure It To-Day, Rub on "Nerviline"

It Will Cure Your Aching Back, Stop Your Suffering, Keep You Well

Back Sufferers, Read Below

"I am just so delighted with this comfort Nerviline brought me that I want to talk about it all the time," writes J. C. Caughlan, of Saskatoon. "For ages I have been subject to an aching, dragging feeling at the base of the spine. When attacks came on it made my whole body ache. It appeared as if I had taken cold and a soreness developed all through my muscular system. When in Winnipeg one day a friend spoke to me of Nerviline, and I bought a 50c. bottle. That was the best half-dollar I ever spent, it did so much for me. It is hard to convince some people of what a really good medicine can do, but there will be no sceptics after they try out Nerviline. I use it for everything now. It's fine for Rheumatism and Neuralgia and all sorts of muscular pain it cures quickly. But internally, if possible, Nerviline is even better. It cures a cramp in ten seconds, and, as for gas and upset or sour stomach, nothing could excel Nerviline. I think it should be kept in every home as a protection against sudden ills, and also to cure ills that resist other treatments."

An old darkey was summoned before the judge for stealing a chicken. He was on hand early, and before the case was called, the judge, observing his presence, asked his name. My name is Johnsing, yo' honah, said the darkey. Are you the defendant in this case? enquired the judge. No, sah, replied the darkey. Ise got a lawyer to do my defendin'; Ise the gentleman what stole de chicken.

ASSOCIATED ADVERTISING CLUB

The Greatest Business Convention in History Backs You to Baltimore

Every man who uses publicity in any form—every man with advertising or merchandising problems to solve—should be in Baltimore from the 8th to the 13th of June. The occasion is the ninth Annual Convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America. Ten thousand delegates and guests are expected to be present. They will come from all parts of the United States and Canada, and even from abroad. The general sessions, held in the Fifth Regiment Armory, will be addressed by the most progressive and successful American advertising and business men. Departmental and other special meetings will discuss in open forum the problems of various branches of the great business of advertising and selling merchandise of every description.

At this convention you will have an opportunity to hear of the great progress which is being made in efficiency in advertising—how advertising is being made more productive and profitable. You will hear from the lips of the leaders in the movement just what has been done and is to be done to check and punish those who are guilty of fraudulent or misleading advertising. The great educational movement, inaugurated by the Association and now being carried out by scores of clubs, will also be fully described by those in charge of the work. Lay sermons by prominent advertising men will be delivered from the pulpits of Baltimore on Sunday, June 8th.

Don't fail to visit this great convention—send your advertising or sales manager if you cannot come personally. All will be welcome, whether members of advertising clubs or not. All will have an opportunity to hear the addresses and to participate in the splendid program of evening entertainments which Baltimore has provided.

Write now to the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, Convention Bureau, 1 North Calvert Street, Baltimore, Md., for the full program, hotel accommodations, etc.

"SOME HA'E MEAT, AND CANNA EAT"

So Bobby Burns tersely describes the rich, but still poor, dyspeptics. But their case is not now so desperate as when Burns wrote. For the man who has the food now can eat without suffering for it, if he just follows the meal with a Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablet.

These remarkable tablets banish the troubles of the chronic dyspeptic—the man who is bilious—the sufferer from heartburn, gas on the stomach or occasional indigestion. You can eat hearty meals of wholesome food—and digest them, too—if you take Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets.

Compounded by expert chemists, after probably the best formula known to medical science, they are quick and certain in their action, giving prompt relief from all forms of stomach trouble, toning up and strengthening the digestive organs and bringing about permanent cures.

A man is no stronger than his stomach. Fit yourself for your best work by taking Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets. 50c. at your druggist's. National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Montreal.

This label has no "second grade"

THERE'S only one quality of Canada Cement. It is the highest quality that can possibly be made with modern equipment, scientific methods and rigid inspection by expert chemists.

The Canada Cement you buy for a garden walk is the same cement that is sold by the trainload for great dams, elevators and bridges. The engineers in charge of these great works have ample facilities for testing the quality of cement.

Canada Cement

comes up to their most rigid requirements.

The farmer has not these facilities for testing the quality of cement. He must buy a product upon which he can depend for a grade that is always of highest quality, and that therefore does not need to be tested.

You can place absolute reliance upon the quality of Canada Cement. It's always the same and always the best. The large output—which enables us to keep the price down, enables us also to maintain the factory equipment and organization that keeps the quality up.

A Canada Cement label appears on every bag and barrel of genuine Canada Cement. See that it's on the bags and barrels of cement that you buy.

lished by W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont.) is out with a varied list of contents. Among the articles noted are,
A Blaze on a Portage, which will strike a responsive chord in many hearts; After the Giant Muscalonge of Anchor Bay, an entertaining tale of the St. Clair flats; A Canoe Trip to the Great Opeongo Lake District, a well illustrated story of a somewhat strenuous trip in Algonquin Park; A Southern B. C. Goat Hunt, an account of a successful trip into the Cascades; Fox Breeding in Prince Edward Island; Article IV. of Small Fur Bearers and How to Take Them; The Diary of a Canoe Trip in 1854 (conclusion), etc.

There is no real need of anyone being troubled with constipation. Chamberlain's Tablets will cause an agreeable movement of the bowels without any unpleasant effect. Give them a trial. For sale by all dealers.

Harmattan Rifle Asso- ciation

The next shoot will be held on Saturday, June 7th, at 10 o'clock sharp.
Two bronze medals will be shot for (7 shots, 200, 500 and 600 yds.), one medal for each class. Any member not in time to shoot at the 200 yds., which will be shot off first, will not be allowed to shoot in the competition on that day. M28

When your child has whooping cough be careful to keep the cough loose and expectoration easy by giving Chamber-

H. E. OSMOND, Proprietor.

It was the privilege of the writer to make a trip west of Bergen this week for the first time, and to say that he was much impressed with the splendid scenery and the immense possibilities that lay to the west of Didsbury is perhaps no news to those who know this country. The thing that impressed us most, though, was the fact that this section of the country contains some of the finest settlers to be found in any section of this great Dominion. Most of them are Norwegians, with a scattering of Scotch, English and Americans.
They are a sturdy, hardworking class of men, their homes are as clean as a new pin and signs of their thriftiness and hard work are seen on every hand. There is, however, a very heavy handicap placed upon these men. The roads which they have to use to get to their postoffice and store and to town are in such a condition that it is almost impossible to get through with a load of any size. They are doing their best to fix up the very worst spots, but unless the provincial government come forward and give them assistance their work will not count. It is a disgrace to the province that such conditions exist in a settlement that is well worthy of serious consideration. If some of the money which is being spent on the much talked of trunk line was given for improving the roads in that part of the country it would be doing some real good.

Egg Circles

An important part of the poultry work of the Live Stock Branch of the Department of Agriculture during the past year has been the organization of Co-operative Egg Circles.
Ten circles in all have been organized under the auspices of the Branch, working in conjunction with the provincial and agricultural college authorities and the Poultry Producers' Association of Canada. The program work in connection with a number of others has been done, and from present indications it is apparent that this phase of co-operative work is likely to have a rapid growth in the near future.

Being primarily concerned with the improvement of the Canadian Egg Trade the Live Stock Branch has encouraged the formation of these circles because the movement affords a means whereby the quality of eggs can be improved as they leave the farm and the pernicious practice of holding eggs both on the farm and the country store largely eliminated. Co-operative effort of this kind also affords a medium whereby the eggs in any given community may be collected and marketed frequently and regularly, and insures the consumer a new laid egg of uniform quality at no great increase in cost.

At the time of joining the association the members agree to stamp each egg with a given number designated by the Board of Directors. This is done so that the eggs of each member may be identified when graded and payment made according to quality.

A manager is appointed by the Board of Directors whose business it is to collect, grade, sell the eggs and apportion the returns among the members according to the quantity and quality received. In most circles the eggs from each farm are collected at stated intervals, but in others the members deliver the eggs to some central point such as a creamery, cheese factory, store or house, from which the manager makes the shipment.

It is well known that at certain seasons of the year there is a wide difference between the price received for eggs by the farmer in the country store and the price paid by the consumer in the city. This difference is not nearly so marked in the spring of the year as it is in the late summer, fall and winter. In other words, as the quality of ordinary farm eggs becomes more uncertain the premium placed on new-laid circle eggs increases. While during the spring of the year prices received by circle members may not greatly exceed those paid in the local store, it is a fact that for the eggs produced in the month of December last year the majority of circles in the province of Ontario and Quebec received a price of from 45 to 50 cents a dozen.

A limited number of circles will no doubt be able to take advantage of the rapidly growing select trade in the larger Canadian cities, but from the fact that the wholesale egg dealers in Ontario and Quebec have recently adopted a new system of buying on a basis of quality, it is likely that the product of the majority of circles will find its way to the consumer through the more recently established channels of trade.

The Live Stock Branch stands ready and willing to help on the egg circle movement in every possible way.
Officers of this branch are now in the field, and there is available a quantity of literature, including outlines of constitutions, by laws, etc., dealing with the work, copies of which may be obtained upon request from the Live Stock Commissioner, Ottawa.

It is now well known that not more than one case of rheumatism in ten requires any internal treatment whatever.
All that is needed is a free application of Chamberlain's Liniment and massaging the parts at each application. Try it and see how quickly it will relieve the pain and soreness. For sale by all dealers.

The Calgary Fair

Many of the residents of this portion of the province are completing arrangements to attend the Calgary exhibition in July, and from the information which is received concerning the programme arranged for the week, there will be something doing all the time. From an exhibition point of view there is assurance of a very large display in all departments. The live stock breeders are preparing their animals for the show ring, and the reputation which Alberta has received as a stock country will be again amply demonstrated.

The bombardment of Alexandra will be presented as the principal feature in a pyrotechnic display which will excel anything attempted in the west at any fair. In addition to the fireworks there will on one night of the fair be a spectacle of a real house in the centre of the track catching fire, and a turnout of Calgary's crack motor fire apparatus.

The racing programme provides $22,000 in prizes for saddle and harness, and taken as a whole those who spend their holidays in Calgary at fair time will not want for either entertainment or instruction.

A sprained ankle may as a rule be cured in from three to four days by applying Chamberlain's Liniment and observing the directions with each bottle.
For sale by all dealers.

MURRAY MURGATROYD
JOURNALIST

By Morice Gerard

The journalist waited for some minutes, during which the two men were supplied with the staple article of the place, and Jordan was just settling himself down to his night's enjoyment when he felt a touch on his arm. Murgatroyd had leant over to attract his attention.

"I haf beesness with you, said he in an undertone. Jemmy looked both annoyed and suspicious. "I don't know you. Can't it wait? I know you, Mr. Jordan, and my beesness will not wait. Jemmy muttered an oath. Out with it then."

"Is there no room in which we can talk—more private than these? What does it mean, pal. Swag? It weel be worthy our while, Mr. Jordan, believe me. He spoke with the emphasis of deep undertone. Jemmy pondered for a minute or two; then he touched a bell in the wall, close above his head. The janitor reappeared.

"Is the fly-room empty? Yes—no one been in it for some days."

Jemmy strode to the door, Murgatroyd following. Outside, the former said: "I must blindfold you. I suppose it's all right by your being here, but we don't let spiders into the fly-room—if we know it."

Murgatroyd had come to see this matter out, and was not going to be daunted by a trifle.

Very well, he said briefly, in the same assumed tone. Jemmy bound his scarf round Murgatroyd's eyes and wig. It had not been for the gloom of the passage he would assuredly have found out the imposture—and the end might have been different.

He took his hand and gulped him for some yards. Then he stopped and Murgatroyd's quick ears detected a click like the snapping of a lock. A rush of cold air outside—the night air of January—struck upon his face. Jemmy took his hand again, and they went over a fledge courtyard apparently. Then there was another pause and a second click.

They had passed in another minute into inside air again, but unwarmed, very different from that of the opium chamber.

Murgatroyd felt chilled—a chill of the heart rather than the body, although the two were obviously connected.

Jemmy struck a match; then he nudged the scarf. The room was lighted by a common candle, in a tin candlestick, which was spluttering in the first enthusiasm of ignition by the match which lay smoking in the tray.

There was light enough to show that the room was to all intents and purposes a prison, with a barred window high up in the wall, a truckle bed scantily covered with a blanket and worn rug, a single rickety chair, and a strong deal table. The door which had closed behind them, was so artfully concealed in the wall as to be indistinguishable.

Jemmy was watching Murgatroyd with keen little eyes, to note the impression made by his new environment.

We need a jug quite as much as the police sometimes, he remarked facetiously.

Murgatroyd instinctively placed his hand in the deep pocket of his coat in which he had placed the revolver. It was not there.

Jemmy simultaneously held up the candle, which by this time was giving a stronger and a steadier light. He wished to mark the effect of the discovery Murgatroyd had just made, and the result of the scrutiny elicited the remark, which was a compliment coming from whence it did—

"You're a cool 'un, you are, to—be sure."

Murgatroyd's answer was calmly to divest himself of his wig and beard.

Mr. Murgatroyd, as I'm a living sinner, ejaculated the astonished Jemmy. Well, you took me in, to be sure.

There seems to be only one chair in your sitting-room, Mr. Jordan, so perhaps we had better stand. I came to see you.

Yes, and brought your toothpick with you? I guessed that in the smoking room.

I did not bring it to oblige you.

Thanks. Mr. Jordan laughed a little malicious laugh; then he asked—What's your business with me? A too long talk might provoke other people to ask questions—not so amiable as me—and that might be awkward.

In the first place you were in St. James's Park this afternoon!

Jordan's eyes flashed ominously.

That's a lie! S'elp me bob, I've not been so fur west this three week.

While there you picked up a lady's watch, which she happened to lose, went on the journalist quite calmly, taking not the slightest notice of the interruption. I want that watch handed to me. I see you have it on you. Anyway, the end of the chain—which was broken—is just perceptible, sticking out of your waistcoat pocket.

Jordan had taken off his great-coat before entering the smoke-room. He now thrust in the incriminating bit of chain with an oath.

I s'pose you know your life ain't worth very much, with a bit like that about you, down 't these parts. He was nevertheless evidently somewhat cowed by Murgatroyd's cool matter-of-fact manner.

Don't bluster, it only wastes time. Now I want that watch, and I'm willing to pay a fair price for it. That is not all. I want you too, Mr. Jemmy Jordan.

I'm often wanted, chuckled the artful Jemmy, but not always at home. I want you to take a little trip with me into the country.

With you! to—be sure, ejaculated the astonished Jemmy. You've not taken up with our line now, 'ave you? Perhaps! Anyway I want you; and I'll make it worth your while to come.

That's business. You will have to travel and pass as my servant. I dare say you have done a bit of valeting in your time. You may lay that; I was a gentleman's servant one time.

Murgatroyd did not speak for a minute or two; he was thinking.

The journalist took the advice. It was lucky he did so, for in a moment there was a click, and the mysterious door opened. Jemmy whispered something, which was apparently satisfactory to the incomer, a burly man with a red, beery face; for the latter disappeared again, Murgatroyd noting the spot where the spring of the door was. Jemmy chuckled.

You couldn't manage that. I'll let you try directly. There was once a chap what tried at it the best part of the night; he knew he should tell no tales in the morning; but bless your innocent face, he couldn't find it. And Jemmy laughed again at the sinister reminiscence.

For the first time Murgatroyd began to repent of his errand; but he had gone too far now to draw back.

I was wondering, he said, what form of oath would be binding on you, which I could trust you to keep. He spoke more distinctly than he had hitherto done.

I generally keeps my word—when I gives it, Mr. Murgatroyd. But I'll swear by my mother's grave if you like, and I'd rather die than break that!

Very well; swear that if I take you with me, you will do only what I tell you, and no more. There is to be no casual displacement of articles not in immediate use, explained Murgatroyd euphemistically.

Before I swear I should like to know the terms.

That's fair enough. I will give you $25 a day and pay all expenses, and if we succeed in what I am aiming at you shall have $250 in addition.

Jordan's eyes glistened.

I'm your man, he said. I suppose it's this sort of job if we fail? and he expressively circled his throat with his index finger.

Murgatroyd laughed.

Nothing like so bad as that. You are going to do a good deed for once.

Jordan was incredulous. The sum named was excessive for good deeds.

I shall want you to meet me at Waterloo at 10.45 a.m. The express leaves at 11. Come dressed as a gentleman's servant, you understand, and as quietly as possible.

Jemmy nodded.

Now, how about that watch?

Well, I did happen to pick it up in the grass, you understand; but I've taken quite a fancy to it. It's a pretty little thing, and Jemmy drew it out of his pocket, and gazed at it like a weak parent on his first-born.

Well, I suppose you must have it, though it goes to my heart to part, that it does—$100, and I throw in the toothpick. The revolver appeared out of another pocket.

I haven't got it, remarked Murgatroyd. Will a blank cheque filled up do?

Oh, I trust you, answered Mr. Jordan magnanimously; we don't care about paper. I'm a bit rusty about the signature. Bring the shiners along with you to-morrow.

NERVOUS DISEASES
IN THE SPRING

Cured By Toning the Blood and Strengthening the Nerves

It is the opinion of the best medical authorities, after long observation, that nervous diseases are more common and more serious in the spring than at any other time of the year. Vital changes in the system, after long winter months, may cause much more trouble than the familiar spring weakness and weariness from which most people suffer as the result of indoor life, in poorly ventilated and often overheated buildings. Official records prove that in April and May neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy and other forms of nerve troubles are at their worst, and that then, more than any other time, a blood-making nerve-restoring tonic is needed.

The antiquated custom of taking purgatives in the spring is useless, for the system really needs strengthening, while purgatives only gallop through the bowels, leaving you weaker. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best medicine, for they actually make the new, rich, red blood that feeds the starved nerves, and thus cure the many forms of nervous disorders. They cure also such other forms of spring troubles as headaches, poor appetite, weakness in the limbs, as well as remove unsightly pimples and eruptions. In fact they unfailingly bring new health and strength to weak, tired and depressed men, women and children.

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A recent despatch from Prince Rupert received at Grand Trunk Pacific headquarters in Montreal reports that 5,000 poles for use on the telegraph lines along the Panama Canal, are to be cut from Graham Island. This is the first of the Graham Island timber that has found a market and may presage the development of an important industry as experts are agreed that nowhere else could trees be found more adaptable to the manufacture of poles in general and flag-staffs in particular. Some of the timber has not a branch for 100 feet up, while poles 6 inches at the butt and tapering to 4 inches at from 60 to 100 feet, can be cut out in any quantity.

A Gambler

Of the Olden Time or the Mississippi River

By ELIOT WASHBURN

There are few persons living today who knew the Mississippi three-quarters of a century ago. At that time the west—now the middle west to persons living east—was springing forward like a long limbed boy to his manhood. There were no railroads, and the watercourses were in their prime as avenues of travel and trade. There were great paddle wheel steamers, always ready for a race with each other and quite frequently bursting their boilers to win. The other water vehicles on the Mississippi had been in the early part of the nineteenth century the only means of getting persons or goods down the river. They were never seen going northward, always southward. The current, assisted by their long sweeps, would carry them down, but they were not furnished with power to take them back again. On reaching their destination they were broken up and sold for lumber.

During the middle of the century these flatboats, superseded by the steamers, degenerated into movable gambling dens. A boat would be fitted out at Cincinnati, Louisville or St. Louis and floated down to Cairo, Memphis and Baton Rouge, tying up on the way at small towns or plantations, where their owners would open a game, take what money there was to be had, then drop down to the next stopping place. At New Orleans the boat would be sold, and the gamblers would take passage on a steamer for a northern city and repeat the descent.

One evening a steamer tied up to a wharf boat on the bank of the Mississippi in Louisiana to take on freight. There was a small town in which were stored supplies for the neighboring plantations. On the guard of the steamer stood two men looking down upon the line of negroes rolling bales of cotton onto the steamer.

"Do you see that flatboat tied up there?" said one to the other. "Before tomorrow night the men aboard that conglomeration of boards will have the money paid for the cotton being rolled onto this steamer."

"You don't mean it?" replied the other, a northerner.

"Yes, sub, and I regret it, sub. The gentleman who owns this plantation is a friend of mine. He once did me a favor. I'm a member of a fraternity commonly called gambler's. Perhaps you, being a no-the'n man, don't understand the difference between a gentleman gambler and one of those shams who run those flatboats. The difference is that they have no sense of honor, while we have. Now, to show you that I am correct, sub, I'm going to get off this boat and make an effort to stop the rascals getting the colonel's money."

"I have a mind," said the other, "to get off with you and see you do it."

"I should be happy to have you join me, sub."

The men left the boat together and went up on to the bluff. There was a tavern in the place where they put up and after supper went down to the flatboat. One after another persons sauntered down and went aboard. When half a dozen of these pluckable beings had assembled a game was opened, and the play commenced. The gambler and the northerner took no hand in the proceedings, being simply lookers on. It was not long before a young man appeared, who showed by his dress and his manner that he was better bred than the others of the assembly.

"Hello, Lemoyne!" said one of those present. "Going to try it again?"

The man addressed as Lemoyne was too engrossed in his own thoughts or feelings to reply. He sat down at the table and began to bet. He was pale, there was a nervous twitching about him, and he played as one who knows he is going down to ruin.

"That young man," said the gambler to the northerner, "is the son of Colonel Lemoyne, whom I spoke of as having once done me a favor. I expected to find the colonel here, but I have learned that he has gone to New Orleans. I fear that I'm too late to save this young man from these shams."

"Why so?"

"He's lost nearly everything he owns."

"Indeed! How do you know that?"

"By his appearance, sub. I can tell by a man's looks just what proportion of his property he's lost."

"Can't you help him to recon?"

"Not now. He's too far gone. I reckon this year's crop has been lost."

The evening was but half spent when young Lemoyne put up the last hundred dollars he had about him and, rising from the table, went ashore. The gambler waited a few moments, so as not to excite a suspicion that he was interested in the young man; then, beckoning to the northerner to follow him, went ashore. Lemoyne was sitting on a cotton bale. The gambler approached him and said:

"Have you lost everything?"

"I've lost the cotton that went aboard the steamer. I got an advance on it, and the money is all in that flatboat."

"Well, sub, I'll tell you what you do. Here's a hundred dollars. Go down to the boat and start in again. I'll take a hand myself. Are you a med, sub?"

"Yes."

They went down to the boat. The game being played was poker. Lemoyne and the gambler took seats at the table, while the northerner looked on. He said he was no gambler, but handed Lemoyne some bills as a loan with which to recoup his losses. Then the gambler before taking up the first hand dealt him said:

"Gentlemen, this will be a fair game. Any deviation from strictly honorable play will result in my displeasure."

The partners who owned the outfit looked at each other. There was something in the gambler's words they did not like. "Result in my displeasure" meant a great deal. For awhile the game was played fairly, but at a fair game the gambler won. Lemoyne, too, won, but it was because the gambler helped him by staying out or coming in when his doing so would be an advantage to his friend.

Then one of the owners laid down four aces and won a pot. The gambler turned over one of the aces and showed that it had come from another pack. Every one looked nervous, not knowing how his displeasure would manifest itself. He took no notice of the incident, but from that moment his hands were marvelous. Whether the owners of the outfit knew how he got them did not appear, but this made no difference, since having been caught cheating themselves they could not complain.

The gambler and Lemoyne won continuously. Indeed Lemoyne's hands whenever the former dealt the cards though seldom high, were always a trifle higher than that of any one else at the table. Besides, when the gambler dealt, the cards Lemoyne drew always filled his hand. It was evident that the game was going against the owners. But the gambler knew that when they found a man who could beat them at their own devices they would find some way to call a halt. He did not wait for them to choose their time. He chose his own.

A certain jack pot had been "sweetened" so many times that there was a large amount on the table before it was opened. Then when the betting commenced he kept raising every one, so that in time the table was covered with bills. The gambler laid his cards on the table, put his hands down where for a few seconds they could not be seen, and, on lifting them, showed a pistol in each hand, which he pointed at each of the owners. He was perfectly calm, but looked extremely businesslike.

"After my wa'n'g," he said, "that this should be a fair game I have been displeased to see that there has been cheating. A cheating game is without the law, and the longest pole knocks the pe'simmon. Mist' Lemoyne, will you kindly rake in the pot?"

Lemoyne, as soon as he saw the gambler's move, placed his hand to his shirt collar at the back where a bowie knife was slung under his coat between his shoulder blades, but, upon the gambler's request, he withdrew his hand and began to scrape the money on the table into his hat.

Meanwhile the gambler continued to fix a glittering eye on their enemy, and each knew that if he moved a hand a bullet would go crashing through his brain. The gambler asked Lemoyne if he thought there was enough in the pot to pay his previous losses, and Lemoyne said he thought there was a plenty. The gambler then told him to leave the boat and backed ashore himself, keeping the owners covered while he did so. When he reached terra firma he asked the northerner if he would please loosen the bawser that held the flatboat. He did so and the current carried the den of iniquity down stream.

The gambler gave his winnings to the poor of the town. Lemoyne begged to be permitted to show his gratitude in some way, but his benefactor was obdurate. The gambler and the northerner took the next boat going down stream. On the way the latter asked one familiar with the river life what kind of a man the gambler was.

"He's a gambler and lives by fleecing," was the reply.

"But"—began the other.

"But he has his code of honor, and there's not a man living who can make him break through it."

FOR RUINED MERCHANTS.

The Romantic Story of a Greenwich Institution.

Gratitude, as well as benevolence, has played an important part in the founding of our many charitable institutions. In the history of homes for the poor and distressed are to be found a number of splendid examples of men and women who, actuated by their gratitude for some good fortune which has befallen them, decided to share their wealth in perpetuity with their less fortunate brothers and sisters by founding a home for their benefit.

In the annals of charity, however, it is doubtful if there is a more romantic story than that concerning the foundation of Morden's College near Greenwich, which has lately been advertising for "gentlemen" in reduced circumstances desirous of becoming inmates of the college home. The latter has accommodation for forty-one inmates, who must be men of good character, either widowers or unmarried, and not under sixty years of age, who shall have been either merchants or manufacturers or have been engaged as principals in some wholesale trade or business for not less than ten years, and who, from misfortune or accident, have become reduced in circumstances.

Morden's College was established by Sir John Morden, Bart., who died in 1708, and who founded the college eight years before his death. He himself was a merchant who, through singular circumstances, thought himself a ruined man.

Sir John, after living for a number of years in Turkey, amassed a considerable fortune, and, deciding to return to London, placed the whole of his merchandise on three ships; but, like the missing vessels of Antonio in "The Merchant of Venice," they did not turn up, and after a time were given up for lost. The consequence was that the once wealthy merchant was reduced to great poverty, and it was only by acting as agent for certain tradesmen that he was able to earn a livelihood.

For ten years Sir John thus struggled on, and then, to his great amazement, one day came the news that his long-lost ships had arrived in port. In the joy of the moment he vowed to build an asylum for decayed merchants.

He purchased from the crown the manor of Old Court, Greenwich, and on what was known as the Great Stone Field he erected a college from designs by Sir Christopher Wren. The original college consisted of a chapel in the centre and apartments for twelve residents, who dined together in a common room. Since those days, however, it has been considerably altered, and, as already mentioned, there is now accommodation for forty-one inmates, who not only are provided with separate sets of apartments, with furniture, if required, to the value of $125, together with attendance, coals, wood, and light, but have an allowance of $500 annually, with an extra $25 for personal laundry.

Lured To Death.

A Scotch naturalist in Edinburgh has recently given to the world some interesting facts which go to show how animals as well as human beings respond to the lure of the sea, and how they will travel sometimes for hundreds of miles to answer its call and then push on into its waters to their own destruction.

The most curious example of this tendency is found in the seaward migrations of the small brown volelike lemmings. These animals will at certain times leave the highlands of Scandinavia and march in vast hordes toward the lowlands, moving only by night and following the general trend of the valleys. They hold tenaciously to the general direction in which they set out and are diverted neither by streams nor by moderately sized lakes.

Eventually, after a march lasting from one to three years, the army, devastated, of course, by many foes, reaches the sea, but not for its own good, for, queerly enough, the end of the journey is not attained, and many of the little animals push on into the waters, fulfilling to their own destruction the unaccountable impulse to push forward.

Other creatures likewise are known to fall under the spell of the sea. It is rather commonly known how the European reindeer will spend the hard weather of winter on the highlands of Scandinavia and Russia and feed sparingly on snow-covered moss and lichen and then in summer, in spite of the fact that food has become more plentiful inland, will forsake these haunts for the seacoast.

That children should be seen at times, but never, never heard.

Mother (entering bedroom)—Why, children, what are you crying for?

Bobby—I wanna dink.

Mother—Well, I'll get you a drink.

Elsie, what are you crying for?

Elsie—You didn't hear Bobby, mamma, so I was helping him cry.—St. Louis Republic.

Farm and Garden

FARM POULTRY HOUSE.

Convenient, Sunny Location and Good Drainage Are Essential Points.

Good growth of poultry and heavy egg production depend to a large extent upon the proper housing of the stock. A bulletin issued by the Iowa agricultural experiment station sets forth the essentials of a good house in brief form.

The first consideration in building a poultry house is its location. It is of greatest importance to select a site having well drained soil. It is next important to have a convenient location. The poultry house may be nearer the residence than the live stock barns, and as women have a large share in the management of the flock on the average farm it should be so located. It is undesirable to build the poultry house near granaries, cribs or barns which may furnish a harbor for rats and other vermin which prey on poultry. A sunny location well sheltered from the north winds is highly desirable whenever it is possible to obtain it without sacrificing good ground drainage.

The A-shaped movable colony home illustrated is cheap and light and has been thoroughly tried out and found to be very satisfactory for raising chicks in flocks of 200 to 300. It will winter from fifteen to twenty hens. The house is 8 by 10 feet and because of its lightness and substantial construction it can be readily moved from place to place on the skids which furnish the foundation for the house. It is warm and convenient, and the fowls are well protected from drafts.

No Treasure Found.

Led by Miss Barryhill and Miss Genevieve Davis, the treasure-hunting party from Plymouth which has been searching Cocos Island in the Pacific for treasure supposed to have been buried there by pirates many years ago, has arrived at Panama on board the steamer Melmore without any spoils. The Melmore sailed from Barry in September last, carrying, in addition to the officers and crew and the two ladies mentioned above, Mr. H. Whitworth, of London, and two other gentlemen financially interested in a venture which was fondly hoped to return 100 per cent. profit. The failure of two other attempts to locate the buried gold and jewels of the buccaners made by Earl Fitzwilliam and Mr. Harold Gray did not diminish the faith of the members of the Melmore expedition, who declared they had specific information of the exact position of the accumulated hoards. One treasure was brought from Lima in 1820, consisting of gold bullion and articles to the value of about $25,000,000, and the other treasure, which is placed at an even higher figure, was taken to the island by the famous pirate Bonito. Despite the care with which the Melmore was fitted out—the expedition was estimated to cost $500,000—the search appears to have been fruitless.

Right to the Point.

Probably the most concise summing up on record in a civil case has been attributed to Baron Bramwell. The defendant's counsel closed his case without calling a witness whose coming had been much expected.

"Don't you call Jones, Mr. Blank?" said the judge significantly at the close of counsel's address.

"I do not, my lord," replied the advocate.

The judge turned round to the jury and gave vent to a low and prolonged whistle.

"Whe-e-ew!" he said, or, rather, whistled. "Gentlemen, consider your verdict."

Suffering from a growth which threatened to destroy his jawbone, Dr. W. M. Beck, says The Ceylon Mail, calmly stood before a mirror at his home and performed the difficult task of operating on himself. He made an incision just below his left jaw, cut away the flesh from the point of the chin almost up to the left ear, then scraped the bone and sewed up the wound.

After being put to sleep for a week by falling from a horse, E. F. Braun has regained consciousness but is still in a very weak condition.

Bergen Items

Mr. J. F. McKnight, who lives about eight miles south and west of Bergen, had the misfortune to break his left leg above the ankle on Saturday afternoon last. He, with his son, was fixing the roof of his house when the support on which he was leaning gave way, precipitating him to the ground with the above results. Dr. A. J. Weart was summoned from Didsbury and went out on Sunday and set the injured limb. This is the second accident of this kind that Mr. McKnight has suffered from within a year. He broke his right leg in about the same place last fall. His son also fell from the roof in trying to save his father but luckily sustained no injuries with the exception of a few bruises.

O. Arneson has cleared a lot of his land and has a good piece of it seeded down. He has put up a lot of fencing and his farm is beginning to present a home like appearance.

Another farm which shows a great deal of hard work is that of A. Halverson on the range line. He has a large piece of ground cleared and has an excellent home and outbuildings on it. Mr. Halverson intends to go into cattle extensively and is one of those newcomers from Norway who are making excellent settlers for this west country, and will make a success of it, too.

Mr. Gulson, who keeps the store at Bergen, has completed a deal whereby he has secured some Edmonton property for his fine farm at Bergen.

Johannesson's saw mills are humming with business; their mills at the Fallen Timber are running at full capacity and they have a big supply of rough and dressed lumber on hand which will be speedily used up by the large requirements not only of their immediate district but for miles around.

The roads in this section of the country are a disgrace to any country which claims as much for its settlers as this country does, and it is not the fault of the excellent class of settlers in this district either, because they are doing everything in their power to remedy them. They need government help and should get it.

Seventh Day Adventist Progress

(Contributed)

During the past four years the Sabbath schools of the Seventh Day Adventist denomination in North America gave $632,778.30 for the furtherance of the gospel in foreign lands, according to a report rendered by Secretary George B. Thompson, before the delegates at the world conference of Seventh Day Adventists now in session in Washington, D. C. An extract of this report has been received by John H. Bates, secretary of the Sabbath school of the local Adventist church, and the members were much interested in the progress mentioned in it.

During the quadrennial period of 1905-1908, the Sabbath schools gave $273,141 to missions, the increase over this amount during the quadrennial period ending in 1912 being $159,636.

The report further showed that in 1908 the denomination had 3,747 Sabbath schools, 1,260 of which were in foreign fields and 2,478 in America.

During the four years of the general conference period, the schools had grown to 4,467, of which 1,845 were in foreign lands and 2,614 in home fields, making an increase of 547 foreign and 136 home Sabbath schools since the last general conference.

Four years ago there was a membership in these Sabbath schools of 88,843, of which 22,011 were in foreign fields. During the quadrennial period there has been an increase in membership of 25,170, of which 23,678 has been in foreign lands and 1,492 in the home fields, the membership in the foreign fields having doubled during the past four years. During the four years 3,542 of the Sabbath school scholars have been converted, and most of them baptized.

Since 1867, when the first deposit for missions was made by the schools, they have donated $1,313,580 for missions. The record of offerings to missions in 1912 from the Sabbath schools was said to be especially encouraging, as during the year $228,029 was given, which was an increase of $71,540 over 1911.

The members of the local Sabbath schools are especially interested in the recommendations made to the General Conference, which are as follows: That attention be given as never before to make the Sabbath schools a great power in saving souls; that some plan be devised at this conference which will result in increased study of the lessons; that the Sabbath school workers' training school be continued; that the officers of the Sabbath school be elected the same as other church officers and serve for one year instead of six months as at present, and that the secretaries of the Sabbath school work in the various conferences be chosen that can give their extra time to that work.

Notice to Creditors

IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF MAYE M. McARTHUR, INSOLVENT.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the above named insolvent Maye M. McArthur, of the town of Didsbury, in the Province of Alberta, Milliner, has made an assignment of her estate and effects to The Trusts and Guarantee Company, Limited, Official Assignee, for the general benefit of her Creditors, under the provisions of "The Assignment Act," being Chapter 6 of the Statutes of Alberta, 1907.

The Creditors are notified to meet at the Office of the Trusts and Guarantee Company, Limited, in the City of Calgary, at the hour of three o'clock in the afternoon on Tuesday, the 10th day of June, 1913, for the purpose of receiving a statement of the affairs of the said insolvent, for the appointment of inspectors, and the giving of directions with reference to the disposal of the estate.

Every creditor or person claiming to be entitled to rank on the estate assigned is required to deliver or send post paid to the said company, on or before the 28th day of June, 1913, particulars of his claim, verified by affidavit, and such vouchers as the case admits of, and stating whether he holds any security for his claim or any part thereof, and putting a specified value on such security (if any), in accordance with the said Act.

And notice is further given that after the said 28th day of June, 1913, the said Company will proceed to distribute the estate of the said insolvent under the said Act, having regard only to the claims of which it shall have notice at such time of distribution.

Dated at Calgary this 29th day of May, 1913.

Make Us Prove It

We dare not exaggerate to you. We are dependent upon your patronage. To get it we must have your trust and confidence. We make the following statements with a full understanding of what they mean to us. You are safe when you believe in these statements.

For the Bowels

If you only knew as much as we and those who have used them now about Rexall Orderlies, you would be as enthusiastic about recommending them as we are. They taste just like candy. They act so easily and so pleasantly that the taking of them is a pleasure.

Even children like Rexall Orderlies; and you know that if a medicine appeals to a child, it will appeal to grown-ups.

Rexall Orderlies

help chase gloom, dispel blues and make you feel happy by their splendid tonic, cleansing and strengthening effect upon the bowels. — They act to free the system — and keep it free — from the distress and ill feeling that naturally results from irregular and inactive bowels.

Rexall Orderlies do this quietly, without griping or causing nausea, purging or excessive looseness. They act to overcome and remove the cause of bowel ills and in a short time usually make unnecessary the continued use of physics and purgatives, thus tending to stop such unhealthy habits as may have been formed.

Make us Prove This

We do not ask you to take our word for this. We want you to make us prove it, and at no cost to you.

Buy a box of Rexall Orderlies at our store. Use them once, or use up the whole box. Then, if you are not thoroughly satisfied, just come back empty handed and tell us. Without collecting you or questioning you we will return the money you paid for them.

Doesn't that indicate that Rexall Orderlies are at least worthy of trial? Doesn't it prove our faith in them? Doesn't it merit your confidence? Could any other be more fair to you?

We particularly recommend Rexall Orderlies for children, delicate and aged persons. Rexall Orderlies come in convenient vest-pocket size tin boxes. 12 tablets, 10c; 36 tablets, 25c; 80 tablets, 50c.

CAUTION: Please bear in mind that Rexall Orderlies are not sold by all druggists. You can buy Rexall Orderlies only at the Rexall Store.

You can buy Rexall Orderlies in this community only at our store:

Lived too Long

Pittsfield, in the Berkshire hills, had in the old days, like many another New England town, a number of men and women who were called characters. One of these was Bill Brown, a man unfortunately addicted to drink and frequently intoxicated for days at a time.

On one occasion he went into the shop of the local hatter, Mr. Smith, and asked for the best beaver he had. Mr. Smith produced the desired article saying, as he took the money: That beaver will last a man a lifetime.

Bill went proudly down the main street with his fine beaver on his head and immediately celebrated the event with a protracted debauch.

When he recovered he returned to the shop with a most disreputable hat.

Look here, I thought you said this here beaver would last me a lifetime. So it would, growled Mr. Smith, if you had died when you ought to.

ZAM-BUK CURED HIS ECZEMA

AN OLD SETTLER FINDS QUICK RELIEF

CHAS. MARSHALL CURED BY DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Mrs. Marshall Tells How Her Husband Suffered, and of His Speedy Recovery When He Used the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Parkinson, Algoma, Ont. (Special—Living far from towns and with doctors not within easy reach, many of the settlers have found Dodd's Kidney Pills an inestimable blessing. One of these is Mr. Charles Marshall, Sr., whose recovery from a severe case of kidney disease has recently been the cause of much satisfaction to his family and friends.

"My husband was suffering very much with his back and legs," Mrs. Marshall says, speaking of her husband's cure. "He went to see the doctor, and he told him he had urinary trouble, but he did not seem to get any better."

"Then I sent for some Dodd's Kidney Pills. Since taking them, he has no more pain in his back and legs, and his other troubles are all gone. "I am indeed thankful for what Dodd's Kidney Pills did for my husband, and I hope other sufferers from kidney disease will benefit by his experience, and use Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Urinary troubles are caused by diseased kidneys. So are backache, rheumatism, lumbago, and heart disease. The natural remedy is to cure the kidneys by using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

A Lofty Character

Our idea of a lofty character is one who can smoke a bad cigar and not hate the famous man it is named after.

I want a license to marry the best girl in the world, said the young man. The clerk nodded smilingly and replied: Sure. That makes the 1,300 licenses for that girl this season.

Tired and Weak Nerves Exhausted

The feelings of fatigue and languor which overcome so many people at this season of the year tell of the exhausted condition of the nerves. It is impossible to keep up the action of the heart and the vitality of the nerves when the blood is thin and watery, and this is why nearly everybody needs tonic treatment in the spring.

Some of the symptoms are restlessness, purposeless activity, insomnia, absent-mindedness, tired gait, lack of ambition and enthusiasm, headache and neuralgic pains, dyspepsia and feelings of languor and depression. Monotony of work and mental overstrain or worry sap the nervous system, as does also the strenuousness of modern life, whether in the business or social world.

More and more men and women are obliged to seek the assistance of such concentrated foods as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to restore vitality to the tired and worn-out nerves.

Such treatment is necessary, because diseases of the nerves do not right themselves. As nerve force runs low the digestive system fails to extract the necessary nutrition from the food. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food supplies in condensed form the ingredients required, and restores health.

A little patience is necessary in treating diseases of the nerves, and rest helps to restore strength. You can be sure of lasting beneficial results when you use

Will Put Down Cement Walks

The Council met on Monday night in the Council Chambers, Mayor Atkins, Couns. Moyle, Durrer, Cooper, Solicitor Patterson and Sec. St. Clair present; Couns. Osmond, Sinclair and Chambers absent.

Moved by Couns. Durrer-Cooper, that town Council will allow the rate-payers living on Osler street to build a cement sidewalk from the restaurant corner to the end of street at their own expense, the town to furnish the cement, the chairman of Civic Works committee to superintend the work. Carried.

Couns. Moyle-Cooper—Be it resolved that this Council again endorse the all-Canadian Georgian deep water way, and urge upon the government that its construction be no further delayed. Carried.

Bills O K'd in the hands of the Secretary were ordered paid as follows: H. Roeth, unloading coal, etc., $18.45; T. McDonald, caretaking, $11; International Coal and Coke Co., coal, $90; W. G. Liesemer, power plant, $13 30; W. G. Liesemer, town, $64.45.

The Council then adjourned.
